DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is responsive to the amendment (E) filed on 01/05/2004.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 and 8-9, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Carlson (U. S. Pat. - 4,956,868).

Regarding claims 1 and 8-9, Carlson discloses a microphone (Figs. 1-3) for hearing aid, the microphone being encapsulated in an electromagnetic shielding case (23) forming a shielded microphone system unit. But Carlson does not clearly teach other subsequent signal processing components as claimed. Since providing any suitable signal processing components hearing aid is very well known in the art, it therefore would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to be motivated to provide all necessary signal processing component, such as an ADC, AMP and DAC for the hearing aid for providing a more desirable hearing aid having more advanced DSP technology.

3. Claims 2-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Carlson (U. S. Pat. - 4,956,868) in view of Husung (U. S. Pat. - 5,809,151).

Regarding claims 2 and 5, Carlson does not clearly disclose that the signal processing components including ADC are encapsulated in a shielding case as claimed. Husung discloses an electromagnetic shielding case (15) for IC components of a hearing aid (Fig. 1). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to be motivated to provide the electromagnetic shielding case taught by Husung for the signal processing components, such as ADC of a hearing aid as an alternate choice for further reducing electromagnetic noises.

Regarding claim 3, Carlson further discloses the hearing aid, wherein the microphone system (1) and the signal processing components, may be detachably combined in modular manner.

Regarding claims 4 and 6-7, Carlson does not clearly show at least two microphones for dual channel signal processing as claimed. Since providing a dual or multi channel signal processing in hearing aid, especially with more than one microphone is very well known in the art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to be motivated to provide at least two microphones and signal processing channels for the hearing aid, in order to enhance the performance of the hearing aid, such as directional capability.

Response to Amendment

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
